No responsibility can be accepted for any damage caused in transit. It is your responsibility to ensure the goods are suitably packaged to travel via courier services back to us. We will arrange collection and subsequent return at our cost provided the unit is correctly covered at the time under the terms and conditions of guarantee.

We reserve the right to repair, replace in part or fully any item(s), which we deem to be faulty, or even the entire system, at our discretion. Please note we will not be responsible for any installation charges that you may incur. In the event of a hardware fault, please check all connections, (very carefully, as we do not cover broken or damaged connectors), electricity supply and fuses.

If you do have a hardware fault then please call the telephone number overleaf where our operators will take all the necessary details for fault diagnosis.
